

Children in Crisis founder Sarah, Duchess of York with Manuel Fernandez

Stroke of fortune: Christian Hook, whose paintings helped raise £50,000 for charity

Children in Crisis supporters Edwina Hayes and her son Hector

THE ART OF GIVING GENEROUSLY

London society stars dug deep in their pockets as they joined Sarah, Duchess of York for a fundraiser in aid of her charity Children in Crisis. The party, at Clarendon Art Gallery in Mayfair, featured a private view of work by artist Christian Hook, who spent the night painting a portrait of the Marchioness of Milford Haven. Guests went head-to-head in an auction to bid for Christian's artwork Fragments of Memories and also snapped up prints of his work, helping to raise £50,000 for children across the world hit by war and poverty.

Frederica Lovell-Pank and Davina Harbord